

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God’s Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.

The Nativity of St. John the Baptist – June 24, 2018

Text: The Benedictus

Theme: The Coming of the Last Prophet

In our Gospel for today, we hear from Zechariah. He was a priest in the line of Aaron, the brother of Moses and he had been called to service in the temple. This was a greater honor than it might appear to us at first glance. There were over 2,000 priests in Israel so not everyone got to serve all the time. Your turn to serve might only come up once every 4 or 5 years. Now by the time of our text, Zechariah was an old man so he probably had served 10 or 12 times in his life and he surely knew that this might very well be the last time he would serve God at his Altar. For a priest, this is really significant. No matter what else a Pastor might do in his vocation as a priest of God, our service at the Altar is the most significant service we offer – to handle the things of God in worship is not something that is easily put into words, but just ask any retired pastor and he will tell you what he misses about active duty. He misses proclaiming the Word, baptizing new believers and consecrating the body and blood of Christ at God's Altar. He does not miss going to meetings. He does not miss Synodical conventions, and he does not, miss paperwork.

At any rate, Zechariah went to work at the temple for what he knew may well be his last time of service in his lifetime and something quite unusual happened to him. The Angel Gabriel popped in. As if this were not enough of a surprise, the angel announced that Zechariah and his wife Elizabeth would soon be parents. Elizabeth was not able to have children and was well beyond child-bearing age anyway, so this mirrors the account

of Abraham and Sarah almost exactly. It seems that Zechariah thought that this was a little much and did not believe Gabriel. So he did what human beings tend to do. He demanded a sign. Well he got one. Because he did not believe the words of Gabriel, he was struck mute until the child was brought to the Lord's temple for circumcision. That means that Zechariah could not speak for around 10 months. This was both a sign to Zechariah not to question God and perhaps a gift to Elizabeth. We don't know. What we do know is that when he could finally speak once more, he sang.

He had a few months to consider what he would sing but whether he had written the song during that time or whether the Holy Spirit just moved him at that moment, he sang what we now call the Benedictus. We hold the Benedictus as one of the three great canticles of the Church, all of which St. Luke records for us: The Benedictus of Zechariah, The Magnificat of Mary the Mother of Our Lord, and The Nunc Dimittis of Simeon. Zechariah begins:

⁶⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,
for he has visited and redeemed his people
⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us
in the house of his servant David,
⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,
⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies
and from the hand of all who hate us;

Upon the circumcision of his son, which like Baptism does for us, made John a member of the family of God, Zechariah recounts the fulfillment of the great promises of God to redeem his people. He has redeemed us from

slavery in Egypt. He redeemed us from exile in Babylon. Now, Zechariah's son, John, would herald the Messiah for the final and the greatest redemption yet. All human beings would be redeemed from Hell. Zechariah goes on.

⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers
and to remember his holy covenant,

⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us

⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies,
might serve him without fear,

⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Zechariah is very aware of the oath sworn to Father Abraham since he too had just had his only son in old age. If God can deliver on promises like that, who would think that he will not deliver on every promise? That's why we can serve him without fear. Zechariah is not hampered by modern thinking that tries to force God to fit into our tiny little parameters. He is able to think broadly, in an Eastern way, and simply accept that God can do, and will do the miraculous. You and I are the fulfillment of the oath sworn to Father Abraham. God promised him that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Abraham would never have guessed that God would send his only son to die on a cross and by his death and resurrection, open the kingdom of God to all the people of the world.

⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High;
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77to give knowledge of salvation to his people
in the forgiveness of their sins,
78because of the tender mercy of our God,
whereby the sunrise shall visit us from on high 79to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death,
to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

Finally, he sings to his son. John the Baptist will be the first to proclaim the coming of Christ. This sunrise is the “S-o-n rise” that shall visit us from on high. He will give light to those who sit in darkness and he will give life to those who sit in the shadow of death. That’s us. John the Baptist came to us. He was the last prophet. He concluded the path of the prophets from Abraham to Jesus. He connects the Old Testament to the New Testament, and we are able to see the fulfillment of the promise of salvation that was made in Genesis chapter 3 when God promised that the seed of Eve would crush the head of Satan.

It is true that we believe all that we believe by faith, because none of us were there to witness any of these events or hear any of these promises. We trust in the Word of God, but that faith we have in the Word of God is ever so much stronger because of the work of John the Baptist. He became a living billboard showing Christ to the world and to us. “Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world!” It doesn’t get much clearer than that.